

Name: Masoume

Family: Pirhadi

Date of birth: 1981 September 11

Title: PhD Student in Reproductive Health and Sexual Health

Appointment: Faculty Member

Institute: Isfahan University of Medical Sciences

Department: Midwifery and Reproductive Health

Research Center: Reproductive Sciences and Sexual Health Research Center

Work address: Isfahan University of Medical Sciences

Phone: 031-37927613

Email: pirhadi@nm.mui.ac.ir

Education

- 2012, M.Sc. in Midwifery, Isfahan University of Medical Sciences

Thesis: A comparative study of the effects of vibroacoustic stimulation, music, and acupressure on the outcomes of the non-stress test (NST) and its components in pregnant women referring to Shahid Beheshti Hospital in Isfahan in 2011

- 2009, B.Sc. in Midwifery, Isfahan University of Medical Sciences
-

Professional Memberships & Qualifications:

- Member of the Reproductive Sciences and Sexual Health Research Center
-

Relevant Work Experience

- 2015 – Present: Faculty Member, Department of Midwifery, Isfahan University of Medical Sciences

Involved in teaching, research, and academic supervision in midwifery and reproductive health.

- 2012 – 2015: Midwifery Instructor, Isfahan University of Medical Sciences

Taught undergraduate midwifery courses and participated in clinical training.

Research Experience

- 2024 – The relationship between respectful maternity care and intention for future childbearing among women with one child in selected health centers of Isfahan
- 2024 – Effect of pregnancy yoga exercises on breastfeeding self-efficacy in primiparous women attending a selected center in Isfahan
- 2023 – A model of psychological distress in infertile women based on stigma, social pressure, and infertility-related stress: The mediating role of self-compassion and the moderating role of resilience
- 2022 – Emotional intelligence, infertility stigma, and quality of life among infertile women in Isfahan
- 2021 – Maternal-fetal attachment and parenting stress in pregnant women in Boroujen
- 2021 – Prevalence and correlates of postpartum anxiety and depression during COVID-19 pandemic in Lenjan county, Isfahan
- 2021 – Accuracy of Johnson’s rule in estimating fetal weight at term in Isfahan
- 2021 – Action research for improving the quality of faculty evaluation process
- 2021 – Comparative study of stress and social well-being among employed vs. homemaker mothers during the COVID-19 pandemic in Khorramabad
- 2020 – Effect of COVID-19 on pregnancy outcomes: Gestational age, birth weight, and Apgar score, based on PCR results
- 2020 – Association between smoking/waterpipe use during pregnancy and labor pain severity and neonatal reflexes in Isfahan
- 2019 – Social health, stress of ART, and treatment success in women undergoing assisted reproductive techniques in Isfahan
- 2018 – Spiritual intelligence and resilience in infertile couples in Isfahan
- 2017 – Effect of walking on gestational hypertension in at-risk pregnant women: A randomized clinical trial
- — – Attitudes of midwives in public vs. private hospitals in Isfahan toward barriers to vaginal delivery

- 2015 – Clinical competence and self-efficacy and their relationship in final-year nursing and midwifery students, Isfahan University of Medical Sciences
- 2013–2014 – Effect of auriculotherapy on labor pain, delivery characteristics, and neonatal outcomes in primiparous women in Isfahan
- 2007 – Association between various factors and common vaginal infections among women in selected health centers in Isfahan